Meredith was a very special person. I didn't call her mom although she would have let me. We were more friends. She came out to Colorado many times with my dad to visit and always enjoyed being here and seeing the grandkids and the mountains. She had a love of hats that she shared with me and Was one of the most smiling people I have ever met. She did remarkable environmental work and was one of my heroes for being an activist and protecting from chemical waste. My dad called her the true Erin Brockovitch. I know my dad said she loved clouds and I would send them both cloud photos, including heart ones when I was thinking of her. We will miss you, Meredith.
